(SUNDAY EXCEPTED,)

The following be autiful story has been published in different forms, but none so good as the original

Sir Bugo had reached his 50th year, unmolested by passion, save an ardentoue for a flowing geblet. Instead of love passages, his delight was in tournaments, whence he always returned victorious. At length he was flung from the saidle of his indifference by the beardless tilter, love! He saw Angelica, the fairest maiden in the land, fergot his gray hairs, and, unmindful of the incongruity of a union be-tween May and December, led her to the nuptial altar. Fortunately, Angelica was as modest as she was fair, and her firm virtue repulsed the numerous butternies that swarmed around the opening flowers of her beauty. Sir Hugo knew the tried virtue of his consort, and therefere she was to him dear and precious as the apple of his eye. One morning he went to visit a neighboring baron in arms, his honest squire Conrade accompanying him. Sorreely had they proceeded half way when the knight suddenly stopped, and cried:

"Come bere, Conrade; a most termenting thought has just occurred to me. This is the very day that Father Nicholas comes to the eastle to say mass for my dear wile and myself, matter so essential to the comfort of that inesand I am not at all inclined to have him in my abode during my absence; so gallop back, and desire your lady, in my name, not to admit the Centade paused, and shook his head as if in doubt and replied: "Excuse me, noble sir; but perhaps the lady Angelica, if lest to her own discretion, will do what you with. "A ourse on your perhaps!" exclaimed the knight; "I make all sure by giving the order."

"Do you think so?" replied the squire.
Now, I, in my simplicity, believe exactly the contrary. Take the advice of your faithful servans for ence in your life; let things take their course. G ve no order upon so delicate a point. " A fig for your delieacy!" cried Sir Hugos

"Oh! if it cames to that, sir," rejoined Conrade, "I have no more to say." He put spurs to his horse, and rode back to Angelica saw him galloping up, and cried in terror, from the window, "what has brought the honor of having a live baby of his own, you back in such baste? Has any accident happened to my lord?

"None whatever, gracious lady," answered Conrade, "but the noble knight was apprehensive that some accident might happen you, if by any chance you took a laney to ride Sultan.' "I ride-ride the large greybound!" exclaimed Angelica, in utter astonishment. "I believe you are drunk or mad. It is impossible that your master can have sent us so ridicul

"Aye but he did though," pursued the squire; "and my noble master said at the same time, that he knew Sultan would bite terribly, not being accustomed to be made a poney of; and he therefore begs that you will not attempt to divert yourself in that way." Having said this, he again mounted his horse, and galloped off to rejoin his master. "Am I awake, or do I dream?" ejaculated Angelies. "The folly of Sir Hugo is so strange, that I am almost tempted to believe it all a wild dresm. What does he mean? Is it not enough that I have hitherto tried to read his every will and wish, and, when known, obeyed them implicitly; and do I deserve that he should stretch his power so far, and play the capricious, haughty, tyrant? Now, I see that to be too submissive, toe softly compliant, is not the way to treat him: the worm that crawls the dust is trampled upon. But no, Sir Knight, it is not gone quite so far with us yet; in spite of you I will ride Sultan; and you may thank yourself, as but for your message such a thing would never have entered my head."

Her solil aguy w. s here interrupted by the entrance of a servant, who informed her that Father Nicholas had arrived and was in the ante chamber. "I campt receive his visit today," said the consert of Sir Hugo, "for my lord is absent. Give this as my excuse to the reverend fatuer, and beg of him to return tomorrow. With all due respect to Father Nicholas," continued she, when left to herself, " he shall not spoil my pleasant ride. Now, if my pony were but here. He must have an easy gait and his teeth I do not fear; he is as quiet as a lamb. Oh! now shall I delight in this two-fold pleasure of showing the surly old fellow that I care neither for him nor his orders. and of trying a pastime that is at least a novel one!" Through every corner of the house re-sounded now her cry of "Sultan. Here, boy!

The immense but doeile animal sprang from a bone upon which he was feasting, and was at her side in an instant. Caressing him till she got him into a room, the door of waich she shut; Now, friend Sustan, oried his fair mistress, " no growl, no bite, and all is safe." With her snow white hand she continued stroking and patting his huge back for some minutes, and then, in the hope that if only through gratitude he would comply with her fancy, she mounted her new steed. He showed his teeth a little, in some doubt what he all meant, but she soothed him again into a good humor and patient endurance of the novel burthen; but he thought this quite enough, and did not stir from the one spot. Angelica was naturally not much pleased with being thus stationary; she therefore, gently goaded him with her leg, but no trot would Sultan condescend : be remained motionless as before, while something very like a growl escaped from his immense and fear inspiring jaws. Out of all patience, she now ex-

"You shall feel the spur then, you lazy brute," and drove her heel into his side. He now growled audibly, but stirred not an inch; she repeated her blow. This was too much for canine patience: he made a spring, and as she fell full length upon the floor, he turned and bit her hand. The dismounted rider bedewed I held until persons from shore came to the r re-the floor with a few tears, and then sprang up tief, which was in about three-quarters of an the floor with a few tears, and then sprang up to turn out of the room the uncourteous brute who had thus rudely shown how little he understood play.

Towards evening Sir Hugo returned and inquired with suspicious haste whether l'ather Nicholas had been there.

"Oh, yes, he was here," answered Angelics, " but I ventured to refuse his admittance." The knight cast a triumphant glance at his squire, and whispered him, "Now. old Wisdom, do you see the use of my orders? Conrade, who, as may be supposed, had said nothing of the alteration he made in the substance of his embassy, shrugged his shoulders with a smile unperceived by his master, who had turned again to his consort, and first perceived that she wore a bandage upon her soft hand. He immediately inquired the cause. "Sultan bit me," said Angelica, "and it is all your fault, Sir Hugo," added she, sobbing. "My fault!" cried the knight. "Yes, your fault, and nobody's but yours," retorted his spouse. "If you had not sent me word by Conrade not to ride the nasty, mischievous brute, such a made trick would never have entered my head."

In mute astonishment the knight hurried to seek an explanation from his squire, who had slipped away when Angelica began her complaint. "What message did you bring your lady?" demanded he.

Conrade now confessed the truth. "Were these the orders I gave you, you scoundrel?" said the enraged Sir Hugo. "Certainly not," replied the squire; "but you will own that I have made my point good. You may now see how it would have been had I given your order about the young priest. My noble lady is a model for her sex, and Eve, who meant to have bequeathed to all her perverseness. And we have only to remember the Lady Angelica's pleasant ride upon Sulvigor in the descent."

MR. BLIFKIN'S BABY. As soon as he came into this "breathing world," as the late W. Shakspere has it, he took command in our house. Everything was sub servient to him. The baby was the balance-wheel that regulated everything. He regulated the servants, he regulated me. For the first six months of that precious existence, she woke me up on an average six times a night. "Mr. Blifkins," says my wife, "bring that light here, do, the baby looks strangely; I'm so afraid it'll have a fit!" Of course the lamp was brought, and of course the baby lay sucking his fist like a white bear, as he was. "Mr. Blifkins," said my wife, "I think I feel a draught of air; I wish you would get up and see if the window is not open a little, because baby might get sick." Nothing was the matter with the window, as I knew very well. "Mr. Blifkins," said my wife, just as I was going to sleep again, "that lamp, as you have placed it, shines directly in baby's eyesstrange that you have no more consideration." I arranged the light and went to bed again. Just as I was dropping to sleep again, "Mr. Blifkins," said my wife, "did you think to buy that broma to-day for the baby?" "My dear," said I, " will you do me the injustice to believe for a moment that I could overlook a timable baby?" She apologized very handsomely, but made her anxiety the scape goat. I forgave her, and without saying a word more to her, I addressed myself to sleep. "Mr. Blifkin," said my wife, shaking me, "you must not snore so; you will wake the baby." "Just so-just so,'' said I, half asleep, thinking I was Solon Shingle "Mr. Blifkins,'' said my wife, " will you get up and hand me the warm gruel from the nurse lamp, for baby?—the dear child, if it wasn't for its mother, I don't know what it would do! How can you sleep so. Mr. Blif-kins?" "I suspect, my dear, that it is because I am tired." "Oh, it's very well for you men to talk about being tired," said my wife; I don't know what you'd say, if you had to toil and drudge like a poor woman with a baby." angrily: "what absurd fancies you have got into your head to-day! Do you think an hour's ride a task so very telious?"

and drudge like a poor woman with a baby."

I tried to soothe her, by telling her that she had no patience at all, and got up for the posnet. Having aided in answering the baby? net. Having aided in answering the baby's requirements, I stepped into bed again, with the hope of sleeping. "Mr. Blifkins," said my wife. I made no answer. "Mr. Blifkins," said that estimable woman, in great apparent when he don't know that the dear creature will live till morning?" I remained silent, and, after a while, deeming that Mis Blifkins had gone to sleep, I stretched my limbs for repose. How long I slept, I don't know; but I was awakened by a furious job in the forehead by some sharp instument. I started up, and Mrs. Blifkins was sitting up in the bed, adjusting some portion of the baby's dress. She had, in a state of semi-somnolence, mistaken my head for the pillow, which she customarily used for a pin eushion. I protested against such treatment, in rather warm language, pointing to several perforations in my forehead. She told me I should willingly bear such trifling things for the baby. I insisted upon it that I didn't think my duty as a parent to that young immortal required the surrender of my head for a pin cushion. This was one of the many nights passed in this way. The truth was, that baby was what every other man's first baby is -an autocrat-absolute and unlimited. Such was the story of Blifkins, as he related it the other day. It is a little-exaggerated picture of almost every man's experience.

> AN EXTRAORDINARY CASE OF DOUBTFUL IDENTITY .- The Portsmouth (Ohio) Journal of the 4th inst., furnishes the particulars of a case of doubtful identity which in some respects throws Townsend M'Henry in the shade. Robert M'Auley went from Lucasville, Scioto county, Ohio, about six years ago to California, leaving a family behind. During his absence they have been receiving letters from him in which he stated that it was his intention to return home. He also wrote that he was sick. During last week a gentleman presented himself at Piketon, Ohio, and represented himself as Mr. Robert M'Auley, and said that he was out of money and was not able to walk home. A citizen kindly volunteered to take the sick man to his supposed family.

> He was taken to a near relative in the neighborhood, where his wife (as he claimed) lived. The wife was sent for. She came, but failed and utterly refused to recognize him. She said he was an imposter, there being no resemblance between him and her husband. The gentleman endeavored to relate circumstances to convince his wife and friends that he was no imposter-and did seem to know almost everything that it was supposed Mr. McAuley ought to know. The family and brothers still refuse to acknowledge him, and he is now in Portsmouth sick, and out of money. What adds to the mystery of the whole affair is the seeming fairness of his whole story. He knows all his old neighbors and everything about their history, yet his family dont know him. Some of the neighbors say it is him, but others deny it following story Mrs. Barmingham, wife of the master mechanic of the Galena and Chicago Union Railroad at this point, made a very narrow escape from drowning last week It appears that she was being conveyed by a hired man to Pecatonica. When they were within about a mile and a half of that point they were compelled to leave their carriage and take to a boat, into which they stepped with two gentlemen, who were there waiting to be carried over. They had rowed some distance, when a dog, which was swimming alongside, put his paws upon the side of the boat, upsetting it and precipitating its occupants into about ten feet water. Two of the men swam ashore The other succeeded in reaching a tree near by, up which he elambered. Mrs. Barmingham, after sinking twice, was caught by the man in the tree, and hour. The only injury Mrs. B. sustained was the chafing of her arms, in holding to the tree, and severe cold. After the gentleman had secured his footing in the tree, he found he had a necklace in the shape of a raitlesnake. He succeeded in releasing himself from his dangerous companion without injury.

One of the gentlemen lost his wallet, containing over $100 in money, besides valuable

WHAT "POLL" GOT FOR TELLING A LIE .- Mr. Parker Tilton, says the Newburyport Herald, who resides in the lower part of the city, has had a very intelligent but roguish parrot residing in his family for the past fifteen years. The bird has always been allowed the privilege of the yard, and frequently would stray into the adjoining fields. The parrot had been taught to keep a watch upon the crows that visited the corn field of Mr. Tilton to pick up his corn, which information he had frequently imparted. On Thursday last, "Poll" took herusual stroll, and this time concluded to deceive her master, whereupon she vociferated as had been her custom, "Crows in the cornfield." Mr. Tilton, hearing the voice of his sentinel. crept softly up to the enclosure, and levelling his gun in the direction of the rustling corn, discharged the contents. On arriving at the spot, to pick up the slaughtered depredators of his crop, to his great surprise he found only the mangled remains of his favorite parrot.

THE MARRIAGE SERVICE .- Sir John Bowring, the British Ambassador to China, who, by the way, wrote "Watchman, tell us of the night," as well as many other charming pieces of church psalmody, is said to be not only a very eccentric, but very opinionated man. On one almost an angel, but still she is a daughter of occasion he was animadverting upon the "wickedness," as he expressed it, of the marriage serlineal female descendants her own spirit of vice, as prescribed by the Church of England. "Look at it," said he-" with this ring I thee wed -that's sorcery; with my body I thee wortan, to be convinced that it had lost none of its | ship-that's idolatry; and with all my worldly goods I thee endow-that's a lie."

CHEOPLASTIC PROCESS AN IMPROVEMENT IN MECHANICAL DENTISTRY. Dr. T. O. HILLS respectfully informs the public that he is now prepared to insert partial and full setts of TEETH at reasonable rates on this improved plan. The great advantage this process has over all others is its perfect adaptation. The method of itself insures a most perfect fit. The metal is entirely free from all metallic taste and none of the secretions of the mouth can have any effect upon it. Testimonials from the most prominent citizens of Baltimore, confirming its great superiority, can be seen. All those persons who are suffering with ill-adapted plates will please give me a call, and I will take great pleasure in explaining and exhibiting to them specimens of the work. All inquiries should be made at my office, as I am the only authorized agent for this process. Dr. T. O. HILLS respectfully informs the public Tares doors from 14th Street.

Dr. BAILY begs leave to inform the public that he can be seen at all hours, at his office, located as above. He feels assured that an experience of fifteen years' practice, with the large number of patients, and great variety of difficult cases that he has treated successfully, will enable him to surmount any difficulty, scientific or otherwise, relating to the Teeth. His own experience confirming the opinion of many men eminent in the profession, and especially Drs. Harris and J. and E. Parmly, has led him, long since, to discard all mercurial preparations for filling Teeth, also all Enamels, Gutta Percha, India Rubber, and Cements for the construction of Continuous Gum Taeth, and that Porcelian, mounted on Gold Plate, is the only reliable substance that can be worn in the mouth, as was most conclusively shown by the last mouth, as was most conclusively shown by the last American Dental Convention.

NR. J. Tobias—Dear Sir: I am happy to say that the Spectacles which I obtained from you last week are entirely satisfactory. From an inequality in the visual range of my eyes, I have heretofore found great difficulty in getting glasses of the proper focal distances. It affords me pleasure to state, that by the aid of your optometer this difficulty has been happily obviated, so that the Glasses you furnished me are decidedly the best adapted to my eyes of any I have ever yet used. Very respectfully yours, R. B. DRANE. Rector of St. James' Parish. Having been induced by a friend to visit the establishment of Mr. Tobias for the purpose of trying his glasses I was furnished with a pair slightly colored bine, whice have afforded me more relief and gratineation than any I have ever tried. My sight, origination than any I have ever tried. cation than any I have ever tried. My sight, originally very good, was injured by writing and reading at night, frequently to a very late hour: but with the aid of these glasses I can study almost as late as ever, and that too without the pain I have previously suffered.

Late Commissioneer Gen'l Land Office,

I have used Mr. Tobias's Spectacles for three or four months, and take great pleasure in saying that I am much pleased with them. I have been much benefited by them. GEO. P. SCARBURGH. May 5th, 1856.

I was recommended to Mr. John Tobias as a skilful optician; and as I have eyes of remarkable peculiari-ty, I was gratified to find that Mr. Tobias seemed to comprehend them by inspection and some slight measurement, and he has made me a pair of Spectacles that suits me admirably. A. P. BUTLER. WASHINGTON, Aug. 8, 1865 Having been for years under the necessity of hav-

Mr. J. Tobias. Sir: The pair of Spectacles you furnished me yesterday are particularly satisfactory to me. They are very decidedly the best I possess, and I am the owner of eight or hime pairs, carefully selected in different places and from opticians recommended to me on account of their professional standing in France, England, and the United States, I have been also pleased with your remarks and directions on the treatment of the eyes, for the purpose of preserving and improving the sight.

Tobias's Glasses, I am enabled to testify that their hardness, clearness, polishing, and exact optical shape render them particularly recommendable to those whose merely optical impairment of the eyes are in want of such auxiliaries. This in-convenience Mr. Tobias seems to have removed for the present by the substitution for me of better and more suitable Glasses. They are clear, chrystal-like and comfortable to my eyes. I would commend him to those who from age or other infirmity require ar-tificial aid in this way. J.J. SIMKINS, M. D.

To persons who have had the sight of their eyes se impaired as to require the use of Glasses, I would recommend Mr. John Tobias as a suitable person from whom to obtain such Glasses as they may require, as he has suited me with a pair of Spectroles for a far and near sight. My sight has been impaired for a far and near sight. very much by a service of years in the Post Office Department, which berth required me to be on duty from il o'clock at night till after day, during which time I used but one light. DEPARTMENT OF INTERIOR, May 8, 1855.
From natural defects and the unequal range of my eyes, I have been compelled to use glasses for several years. I have tried different opticians without obtaining glasses perfectly fitted to my eyes. Four months since Mr. Tobias made two pairs especialty for me, which I have found to serve me perfectly. for me, which I have found to serve me periectly.

By the use of his optometer he is enabled to adapt glasses most minutely to the eye. I most cheerfurly recommend Mr. Tobias to all having occasion to use glasses, and bear my testimony as to his skill as an optician.
